At 2:20 am on 9/18/14 the alarm to our white Toyota 4runner that was parked in our drive went off. My husband Rhett Spencer and I went outside to see that someone hit our 4runner. We spoke to the neighbor who we thought hit our car and he did not say much. We assumed it was him who hit our 4runner because the paint on our car matched the damage on his. Rhett and I woke up right away when we heard the alarm and a loud bang.

At 2:20am 9/18/14 I was awoken by a loud bang from outside my window followed by my 1993 white Toyota 4runner alarm going off. I quickly jumped out of bed and saw the vehicle lights flashing, alarm going off and a vehicle driving down the street away from the 4runner. I went outside and found damage to my vehicle. Five minutes later my neighbor 1 house across and 1 house down pulls into his driveway. My wife also outside with me asked if he had seen a vehicle leaving the neighborhood and he replied no. The neighbor walked over and looked at the damage. I took pictures and as I was he said something about his car being hit in the right front a week earlier. The paint transfer on my bumper matched his van's color. He went inside and I verified by looking at his van that indeed it was he that had hit the 4runner. His vehicle is a maroon 2000's Dodge/Chrysler van. I then had my wife call the police.
